Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Teaching Hospital University of Maribor, Maribor, Slovenia

A 33-year-old pregnant women, with abdominal pain was admitted to our department at 21 weeks gestation. It was an early HELLP syndrom who appears only in 10 % from all HELLP syndroms before 27 weeks of pregnancy. HELLP syndrom is hard to diagnose at all, especially in 21 weeks of pregnancy it is hard to recognise it. With our case report we want to present medical history, clinical and laboratory findings and the outcome of pregnancy in an early HELLP syndrom at 21 weeks of pregnancy.
